

International Conference

Dual Statehood in Modern Europe.
The Austro-Hungarian
Compromise of 1867
in comparative perspective

13.–15. September 2017

Paris Lodron Universität Salzburg
Fachbereich Geschichte
Rudolfskai 42, 5020 Salzburg
HS 380 und 389

organized by:

Laurence Cole / Matthias Egger

in cooperation with Brigitte Mazohl and the Commission for Modern Austrian history

The 150th anniversary of the Austro-Hungarian Compromise of 1867 provides an excellent occasion for taking a closer look at the question of 'dual statehood' in the long nineteenth century. This conference, which is dedicated to the late Prof. Fritz Fellner, seeks to provide new insights into the history of the Habsburg Monarchy as a dualist state by analysing it in comparative perspective as part of the wider phenomenon of 'dual statehood' and monarchical unions in modern Europe.

Keynote lecture: Ulrike von Hirschhausen (Rostock)

Participants: Roald Berg (Stavanger), Richard Butterwick-Pawlikowski (London), András Cieger (Budapest), Pia Einonen (Jyväskylä), William D. Godsey (Wien), Alma Hannig (Bonn), Peter Haslinger (Marburg), Ruth Hemsted (Oslo), Alvin Jackson (Edinburgh), Johannes Koll (Wien), Tatiana Khripachenko (St.Petersburg), Günther Kronenbitter (Augsburg), Dag Michalsen (Oslo), Torbjörn Nilsson (Stockholm), Morten Ottosen (Odense), Jana Osterkamp, Anatol Schmied-Kowarzik (Wien), Arno Strohmeyer (Salzburg), Bálint Varga (Budapest), Kristina Widestedt (Stockholm)